

When it comes down to it I am frankly sick and tired of listening to commercials. Everyone wants my money! I find myself getting very grouchy and annoyed having to listen to public announcements . It must just irritate the FCC that they are not getting a slice of this pie and once more they want to interfere in my life. I can't go to the mail box without being stuffed with information I could care less about, I can't turn on the Tv without a bunch of shit thrown my way that I don't want to listen to but have to because I want to watch a program. Satellite radio was one escape for me from commercials I just got pure pleasure and of course someone wants to take that away too. I think its shit! You can't even pick up the telephone without anyone trying to get you to vote or buy more insurance or some other useless crap. . Enough is enough!
